Musahib, Unconquered award winning Canadian filmmaker Elia Sulhaly along with seven members including five local high altitude climbers, Feroz Ali and Jaleel, is currently at the K2 base camp, shooting the heroic actions of the climbers to make a documentary on their incredible achievements, and also narrates the difficulties he is currently facing in shooting the movie.

Praying Muhammad Ali Sulhaly, he said the team Pakistaners' mountain was amongst the greatest mountains of our times' as he has a vast experience in climbing peaks and mountains of 8,000 meters and above, both in winter and winter. His accomplishment of first winter ascent of Nanga Parbat in 1997.

"I am with Sulhaly and intend to hike on to the incredible sites of climbing across 60 Celsius temperature in winter while ascending and descending the 8,000 meters peaks over the years," Elia Sulhaly explained.

Elia Sulhaly said the repeated trauma of getting from here also to extremely high altitude were especially impressive considering he (Sulhaly) still had 10 fingers and 10 toes.

He (Muhammad Sulhaly) mentioned how one year after an especially difficult winter expedition he returned home with frostbite on his fingers and used a sheep skin as a conditioner with approximately warmed water to heal his extremities.

Explaining the difficulties at K2, Elia Sulhaly said it had been a pretty acid ride over the past 30 days. "I'll be lying if I said I was not nervous because my mistake up there can cost you your life." —Correspondent

ALLEGEDLY providing 'official secret' regarding military operations in Pakistan as an official of the UK's Security Intelligence Service (SIMS) known as MR.

A bench consisting of Chief Justice Qazi Raza Khan and Justice Sandeep Kumar dismissed a petition filed on behalf of Ibtisam Khattak by her brother, Qasim Khattak, against his trial by the FGCM under the Pakistan Army Act.

Contending that being a civilian, Ibtisam Khattak was not covered by that law, the petitioner had requested the court to declare the trial illegal, without jurisdiction and based on mala fide.

Ibtisam Khattak, who is also a human rights defender, was taken into custody on Nov 15, 2015, near Swabi and was kept in a cell. In the last year, a high court bench headed by the then high court chief justice, Waqar Akram Khan, had stayed the trial and issued notices to the respondents, including defence ministry, seeking their response on the petition.

In its detailed judgment on the petition, the bench has reproduced the charges under which the detainee has been tried by the FGCM. He has been tried on eight charges falling under the FGCM under the Pakistan Army Act.

In all eight charges, he has been accused of communicating with an official of ISI, Michael Strahan, in different areas in 2009 and providing him with all relevant information regarding military operations in different areas of Pakistan, including Swabi, West and South Waziristan.

Some argue that the entire prosecution of the detainee was based on mala fide as MR-official Michael Strahan, who was the son-in-law of a retired general of Pakistan Army, had not been associated with the case despite being present in the country.

Deputy attorney general Asim Javed contended that the FGCM had the exclusive jurisdiction under the Army Act to try not only military personnel but also all persons, who are subject to that Act.

The bench ruled: "In the present case, the arguments of the counsels of the petitioner that the allegations as mentioned in the charge do not constitute any offence under the Official Secret Act, 1923, cannot be appreciated at this stage for the reason that so far as maintenance has been left by the prosecution. Thus, this argument, at this stage seems premature."

system in response was made on mala fide as the alleged agent of MR had not been prosecuted, the bench ruled.

"Though these arguments were somewhat in view of the law laid down by the Apex Court in the case of 'Ghulam Abbas Niaz' however, since the prosecution is at initial stage and there is no conclusive evidence before us that the detainee was intentionally sought out for prosecution and despite the availability of the availability of Michael Strahan in Pakistan, he was not tried for the said offence."

"Let the trial be completed, and then this question can well be raised by the detainee before the appropriate forum established by the court," the court ruled.

The bench has ordered in different Supreme Court judgments, especially in the FIR All case (PLD 1975 SC 598), in support of its decision.

People no more need to spend on healthcare: CM

Sehat Subahar Programme extended to entire KP

DEBRA IMAMUL KHAN/TAKE: Chief Minister Mahmood Khan has said that people of Khyber Pakhtunkhwa will not need to spend money on treatment as they will get free services in the best hospitals of the country.

He said this while inaugurating the extension of Sehat Subahar Programme in June 5 and 6, the last seven districts, to complete the coverage of all 67 sub-divisional areas of the province for free treatment.

He inaugurated Sehat Subahar Programme in Dera Ismail Khan, Tank and Larkana. Mahmood Khan said that this strategic project had been a success. He appreciated the staff of SOP for hard work and dedication in making health delivery possible to the entire population of the province regardless of their financial status.

He said that government started the programme to provide free treatment facility to poor and needy families.

started in November from Malakand. It was extended to the entire population of the province through a month-wise schedule.

"This vision, the population of Khyber Pakhtunkhwa has access to universal health coverage. KP-domiciled persons are entitled to receive free health services in public as well as private hospitals for all diseases," the chief minister later told the economists.

He said that people could use their National Identity Cards to avail free treatment in the best health facilities of the country.

The programme aimed at providing earliest health treatment to the whole population in more than 300 hospitals selected through a transparent process.

The chief minister said that three and a half years ago, the programme was started in the province.

He added that 300,000 patients of Dera Ismail Khan would benefit from the programme.

He said that government started the programme to provide free treatment facility to poor and needy families. He said that under the programme, it would be possible to treat one family for Rs1 million every year.

Earlier, people used to take loans for treatment but they will not need loans for the treatment.

Health cards are delivered to people within 90 days. Every citizen will get treatment of Rs1 million in a year. Under the programme, patients of Dera Ismail Khan will be able to get treated in Multan, Islamabad, Peshawar and Karachi.

The chief minister said Sehat Health Card would enable people across the province to get free treatment for all major and minor diseases in various hospitals in southern districts.

He said that government was paying special attention to improving medical facilities in public sector hospitals in southern districts.

Four of a family die on motorway in Swabi

SWABI: Four members of a family, including three women, heading from Peshawar were killed and three others injured when two cars overtook after hitting each other on the Swabi Motorway here on Sunday night. Rescue 1122 officials said.

They said the accident occurred due to over-speeding near the Samala Interchange.

Rescue 1122 personnel and locals pulled out four bodies and three injured from the cars and shifted them to a hospital in Mardan. They said the family was travelling in two cars from Swabi to Peshawar.

These killed in the accident were identified as Zahid Shah, 50, Nurwan Begum, 40, Nazamunnisa, 34, and Rojya Begum, 42. Salwan Khan, husband of Nazam Begum, was seriously injured in the accident.

Meanwhile, a tractor was killed when it struck a truck loaded with items on the Swabi-Jhelum Road. The deceased was identified as Karam Khan of Swabi district.

The truck driver escaped the scene, leaving behind the vehicle. The tractor pulled registered on FBR against him. Apparently, a container loaded with cotton bawls was turned into ashes on the Topo-Gadwan Amnari Industrial Estate Road, Rescue 1122 officials said.

The container was going to the industrial units. But when it reached near its destination it caught fire. No casualty was occurred as both the driver and the helper left the burning vehicle.

A local fire tender and Rescue 1122 staff took these
