

NASAL OBSTRUCTION

A 20 yrs old male patient presented with left sided nasal obstruction for last 5 yrs. Nasal obstruction was progressive, gradual onset and complete. The obstruction was associated with on and off nasal discharge. The discharge was sometimes watery or sometime purulent in nature.

O/E

There is single greyish pink polypoidal mass seen in left nasal cavity on anterior rhinoscopy. The probe test shows the mass is soft in consistency, insensitive to touch, doesn't bleed and probe doesn't move all around. On posterior rhinoscopy the mass over hangs from posterior choana.
